Shows students how calculus is used to analyze phenomena in nature — while providing flexibility for instructors to teach at their desired level of rigor Calculus for Biology and Medicine motivates life and health science majors to learn calculus through relevant and strategically placed applications to their chosen fields. It presents the calculus in such a way that the level of rigor can be adjusted to meet the specific needs of the audience — from a purely applied course to one that matches the rigor of the standard calculus track. In the 4th Edition, new coauthor Marcus Roper UCLA partners with author Claudia Neuhauser to preserve these strengths while adding an unprecedented number of real applications and an infusion of modeling and technology. By combining trusted author content with digital tools and a flexible platform, MyLab Math personalizes the learning experience and improves results for each student. For the first time, instructors teaching with Calculus for Biology and Medicine can assign text-specific online homework and other resources to students outside of the classroom. NOTE You are purchasing a standalone product; MyLab Math does not come packaged with this content. Students, if interested in purchasing this title with MyLab Math, ask your instructor to confirm the correct package ISBN and Course ID. Instructors, contact your Pearson representative for more information. Then you can start reading Kindle books on your smartphone, tablet, or computer no Kindle device required. Show details. Register a free business account In her role as Director of Research Computing she oversees the University of Minnesota Informatics Institute UMII, the Minnesota Supercomputing Institute MSI, and USpatial.

UMII fosters and accelerates data-intensive research across all disciplines in the University and develops partnership with industry. Neuhauser's research is at the interface of mathematics and biology, and focuses on the analysis of ecological and evolutionary models and the development of statistical methods in biomedical applications. She is a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science AAAS and a fellow of the American Mathematical Society AMS. Marcus Roper, PhD, is a Professor of Mathematics at UCLA. He specializes in developing mathematical models inspired by physics and biology. His particular research interests include biological transport networks, such as fungal mycelia and the microvascular system. Although many of the projects he works on are experimentally inspired, his goal is to develop new image analysis methods and to gain a better understanding of the world around us. If you are a seller for this product, would you like to suggest updates through seller support To calculate the overall star rating and percentage breakdown by star, we don't use a simple average. Instead, our system considers things like how recent a review is and if the reviewer bought the item on Amazon. It also analyzes reviews to verify trustworthiness. Please try again later. JM11 1.0 out of 5 stars Yes the book it's self is fine and looks new, but as for the class I'm taking I have to say that it has not been useful at all, This book is terrible and wordy. Barnlike paragraphs followed by confusing equations. The concepts are better explained for free on parts of the internet I will not mention here.
